

Microaggression Workshop

THURSDAY, 11/8

4:15-5:30PM

STUDENT CENTER HW 417

Have you ever had someone make a comment that left you feeling uncomfortable about your identity?

Microaggressions are an unfortunate part of the daily lives of many. Without recognizing and addressing them, personal and professional performance can suffer. This conversation will discuss microaggressions, how to recognize and address them while still performing at your best level.

"So, like,
what are you?"

"Why do you sound
so White?"

"You don't act gay."

RSVP HERE: bit.ly/2PZBtde

Guest Speaker:

Adi Clerman

Associate Director
Columbia University,
Mailman School of Public Health

Student Facilitators:

Abdul Mustafa

BMI + NYC Men Teach

Sandra Kumwong

HCAP + Peer Health Exchange

Sponsors:

HCAP; Hunter College Black
Male Initiative (BMI); Career
Development Services (CDS);
CRAASH