LIBR 100
Final Reflection (10 points)

This course is about the process of research, rather than the product. In keeping with that, your final assignment is to reflect upon your own learning in this course. This is not an evaluation of the course content or instruction, rather we want you to think deeply about what you have learned and how you might apply that knowledge.

Below is a list of questions we would like you to answer:

1. Discuss your experiences learning about the research process in this class and how this work fits in with your experiences at Hunter.
2. Tell us something you learned in this class that you can apply now or in the future.
3. Was the course material what you expected it to be? What is something you would have liked to do in this course that we didn’t cover?
4. Revisit your definition of “research” from the icebreaker Padlet post in Module 1.2. Would you define the word differently today? (This is not a trick question. It’s okay to say your answer would be the same if that’s the case)
5. Revisit your Padlet post from Module 1.7, in which you discussed your goal/s for this course. What did you expect to learn from this course? Did you meet your goal/s? Tell us why or why not.
6. Has your work on our class activities changed the way you think about or approach research? Please describe.

You have 3 options for how you can format and submit your answers. CHOOSE ONE of the following:

1. Type your answers out and submit them as a Word document through Blackboard, by noon on Tuesday, December 7.
2. Have a conversation with one of your instructors about these questions in a videoconference on Blackboard Collaborate Ultra. We have 15-minute appointments available between 10:00 AM and 2:00 PM on Monday, December 6, and between 9:00 AM and 5:00 PM on Tuesday, December 7. Sign up here

3. Create a presentation on VoiceThread in which you answer these questions and submit it via the designated link on Blackboard by noon on Tuesday, December 7. If you choose this option, you may want to consult this video, which explains how to create a VoiceThread: https://voicethread.com/howto/blackboard-3/
   (This does not need to be an elaborate visual presentation. You can simply record your voice. Be sure to answer the 6 questions listed above)
