

Computer-Assisted Translation Software (CAT)

- CAT is a process in which computer tools and software programs are used to facilitate the task of translating from one language to another.
- CAT tools do not perform translation automatically like Machine Translation (MT) but instead support human translators in their work, providing suggestions, translation memories, and other useful features.
- Ideal for translating instructional material and specialized documents.
Disadvantages: Longer time required, learning and tool costs.
 - Trados Studio
 - Wordfast
 - Crowdin
 - Unbabel
 - ...